The winners at each were Mrs. Harry Hesse of Rock Island, Mrs. John Furlong of Rock Island, Mrs. M. O'Brien of Moline, and for the all-out, Mrs. William Schneider of Rock Island. Supper was served in the dining room at the inn at 3:30, and the after dinner hours were spent informally. The next regular meeting will be Tuesday of next week.

Miss Kruse, twelve girl friends of the bride were invited to spend the evening, which was delightfully informal. On their arrival the guests were given linen tea towels and told to keep them and embroider their initials in one corner. When these were completed they were presented to the bride in a dainty wicker basket. At 10 o'clock the guests were ushered into the dining room which was beautifully decorated with bouquets of pink Japanese lilies. The table, with covers for 12, had for its center piece a miniature pond, with a clump of Japanese lilies in the center. White tulle streamers from the center of the table to the corners were held in place by crystal candle sticks, holding pink candles. Pink ribbons from the chandelier to the individual places ended in the dainty hand-painted place cards. The tiny crystal candle sticks with the pink candles were given to each guest as a favor. HOUSEHOLD HINTS

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

It takes new potatoes at least twenty-five minutes to boil soft. Just add a pinch of baking soda, the size of a pea to hurry cooking.

Ice-Savings—Wash a woolen hat half-inch thick (using an old blanket) to completely cover top of ice chamber. Make a mass of paraffin about the size of a small cake of soap. Dip hat in paraffin, then dip it in water. Repeat. Paraffin will keep the hat from coming in contact with the ice. Some paraffin can be used for a long time with fresh paraffin covers. This size will hold in two.

To Clean White Felt Hat—Take half pint of gasoline and add when floor is still wet, appears dry. Brush hat well, rub on mixture with the hands, then shake hat well and brush thoroughly with a clean clothes brush. It not sufficiently clean and white, repeat. Hang hat to open all until smell of gasoline has evaporated. One will be pleased with the result.

For Cakes in Chickens—Always have a thin layer of coal oil on chickens' drinking water and see that they get no other water to drink.

CANNING AND PRESERVING.

To Can Corn—To eight pints of corn cut from cob, put one-half pint sugar, one-half pint salt, one pint water; boil fifteen minutes, then seal. Be sure to have both can and lid hot. Soak corn two hours before using.

Corn Sauce—Twelve ears sweet corn cut from cob, two heads cabbage, chopped fine, one teaspoon each of whole black pepper, yellow mustard and celery seed, one quart vinegar, one pint sugar, salt to taste. Cook put in cans and seal.

To Can Green Beans—To one-half gallon green beans string and broken, add one scant cup salt, one-fourth cup good white vinegar; boil twenty minutes, then can. Soak over night before using.

BABY'S MILK.

No bottle baby can thrive during hot weather on milk that is not kept on ice. If there is no refrigerator at hand, take two wooden boxes—one about three feet square, the other five or six inches smaller every way. Place the smaller box in the larger one and fill the space between them, bottom and sides, with sawdust.

In the center of the smaller box keep a four-quart tin or covered kettle in which two or three cents' worth of ice may be kept and placed daily. The milk bottle can be stood in this.

Painting the outer box improves the appearance. Hinge the lid to close perfectly and line it with a few layers of newspaper. The box can be used by small families as a refrigerator.

THE TABLE.

Deviled Crabs—Put crabs (two) boiling water containing one table-

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My husband died four years ago. I am 24 and have a little girl 7 years old. I am in poor health and not able to make a living for my child and myself. I work hard in peoples' kitchens for only $3 a week and now my child is old enough to go to school, which will take a lot of clothes and books. To give her a good education will make me worry. I feel my strength will stand and it will take more money than mine will reach.

Is it right to get married and have a home and companion to help take care of my child? I have been writing to a friend for three years, who joined the navy for four years, and so in a year he will come to claim me for a bride. He has two good trades and can make a good living for me, but I don't know that he will be good to my baby. I don't love him, but I could learn to if he was good to my child.

I have been keeping company for a year with a fellow I love and he is awfully good to me and is ready at any time to claim me as his wife and take care of me, but he is a hard-working boy and works by the month on a farm and has nothing to keep a wife on. I am sure I would have a hard time to live, for he isn't strong and it would take several years to save enough to start a housekeeping.

I am awfully tired living this way and would like to have the one I love, but the one I don't love will and can make a better home for me. What would you do, Mrs. Thompson, if you were in my place? BRUNETTE.

You could never be happy if you married the man you do not love, because such a union would be wrong and dishonorable on your part; and to marry the man you do love, unless circumstances improve, would only make already miserable conditions worse. Apply for a mother's pension to help support your child.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Two years ago at school I met a boy of whom I soon grew to be very fond. I am sure he liked me, too. We were very close friends. Then another boy came there to school, very good looking and attractive. Soon he began calling on me and being with me most of my spare time. But as we were both hot-tempered our friendship didn't last long. Now we are all three in different towns and never see or hear from each other. But I would like the first boy's friendship again. Can you tell me how I could get it? PERPLEXED.

There is nothing you can do. You made the mistake of letting the boy's friendship go when you had it, and now you will have to pay the price.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of 15 and would like to go to high school very much. Now, my father says it does a child no good. But I think with a little teasing he would let me go. If I were not able to go for all four years would you advise me to go for one year anyway? Also, is there any fun in going to high school? My father thinks about the cost. Does it do much and do you have to have many clothes?

LILLIAN.
A high school education will give you a broader outlook on life and enable you to earn a better living. There will be pleasure in your relationship with your classmates and instructors, in the class sport and school activities and in much of the work itself. It is not necessary to wear any better clothes than you wore at grammar school. Have a talk with the high school principal. He may be able to furnish you some of the books or get them second hand so that they will be reasonably cheap. If you wish it, I am sure he will talk to your father and use his influence in getting him to let you go to school. By all means go, if only for a year. The greater your education, the more chance you will have in life.
